Welcome to the Department of Communication Studies

As of Summer 2012, we changed the requirements to become and remain a Communication Studies major. These regulations ONLY apply to those York students transferring into our program as of Summer 2012.

For students who became Communication Studies majors before the fall of 2009, please be advised that your Honours programs (in either the former Faculty of Arts or Atkinson College) have been grandfathered, and we will ensure that you will get all the courses you need in order to graduate. Please consult an earlier mini-calendar for major requirements.

Please note that as of Fall 2012, we have changed course numbers and made a number of 6-credit courses into two-part 3-credit courses.

Important Information

1. For general enquiries in Communication and to book an advising session, please send an email to: lapscomm@yorku.ca or phone 416-736-5057. Include your student number and contact information in all correspondence. Bring a printout of your student record (of courses and grades) to the advising appointment. As well, please download a course check-list from our web site and fill it in before you come in for your appointment.

2. We don't offer a BA degree (90 credit degree), and as a result you must maintain a 5 point GPA (or be close to that average in years 1, 2, and 3—as defined by the number of credits you have earned—see below) or else you will be de-enrolled from our BA Honours degrees.

Year Level	Total Earned Credits	Minimum Cumulative GPA
Year 1	Less than 24 earned credits	4.00
Year 2	24-53 earned credits	4.25
Year 3	54-83 earned credits	4.80
Year 4	84 earned credits or greater	5.00

3. We do not offer a minor in Communication Studies.

4. This mini-calendar is only up-to-date as of April 2014. Please check our website regularly so that you can stay current with any changes we have made to the calendar, events, etc. www.yorku.ca/laps/comm

5. This mini-calendar is a supplement to the information provided in the “Enrolment and Registration Guide” <http://www.registrar.yorku.ca/enrol/guide/> as well as the York University calendar.

Students are responsible for ensuring that they fulfil all the requirements for their major(s) and for the Honours BA degree

Overview of the Department of Communication Studies

The Department of Communication Studies provides students with a comprehensive understanding of traditional forms of media – print, radio, film and television – while also examining interpersonal and organizational communication, computer-mediated communication, and telecommunication networks that facilitate new media and new modes of communication.

The emphasis of the program is on conceptual and critical skills-development rather than on technical and applied training. The program aims to facilitate reflective learning, and to develop effective verbal and written skills, not only as a means of critical and creative expression, but as fundamental to the development of social communication and media, life-long learning, and contribution to community life. We aim to produce graduates who have acquired skills in communication analysis, who understand the increasingly complex field of communication, and who can clearly and effectively communicate their knowledge.

As a means by which to facilitate the delivery of our mission, Communication Studies has formulated a set of goals focusing primarily on the development of student capacities in a field-specific context:

Program Goals

The Department of Communication Studies aims to help students to develop:

- a) knowledge and critical understanding of the central concepts, theories and methods of the field;
- b) the ability to think critically and analytically through the use and application of a range of theoretical and methodological approaches to a variety of communication phenomena;
- c) the capacity to formulate cogent arguments and reflective judgments utilizing appropriate theories, concepts and methods drawn from the field;
- d) the ability to communicate accurately in a well-formed manner in a variety of modes and settings.

Thematic Areas

As of Summer 2012, courses offered by the Department of Communication Studies encompass three thematic areas which are representative of primary disciplinary approaches within the field of Communications Studies. These three areas are: Media, Culture and Society, Politics and Policy, Critical Technology Studies.

1. Media, Culture and Society: Courses in this area focus on how communication media affect the way we perceive and respond to the social and cultural environment. This area emphasizes the study of social and cultural theories which examine these relationships.

2. Politics and Policy: The focus in this area is on the critical role of the state, civil society and private corporations in the development of communications systems, the production and distribution of culture, and issues of social power.

3. Critical Technology Studies: Courses in this area examine the relationships between cultures, societies and communication technologies.

Course Name and Number Changes

As result of our re-organization, we have renumbered our courses to reflect the focus of the courses: the second number of a course corresponds to the following areas

0=Introductory Course
1=Methods and Theory
2= Politics and Policy
5= Critical Technology
7= Media and Culture
9= Courses with a mixture of areas

In this mini calendar we will indicate the new number and the old one. If there is only one number, it means that this is a new course offering. You can access the table of reorganized course numbers from our website by following this link

<http://www.yorku.ca/laps/comm/documents/ReorganizedCourseNumbersTable2015-2016.pdf>

Preparing for the Future, Employment and Career Paths

An Honours Bachelor of Arts with a major in communication studies is generally directed to developing critical, interdisciplinary education as a foundation for life-long learning and progressive contributions to society. The program is not oriented toward ‘applied’ training construed in a narrow sense, but aims to convey a wider and deeper knowledge of the complex social environment of information, media, technology, and communication. Whether you are interested in working directly in media and communication, or appreciate that comprehending, participating, and working in the “information society” requires an in-depth knowledge thereof, our program is designed to provide you with the background, critical education and skills to do so.

To assist you in choosing special areas of interest, organize your course selections, consider complementary major or minors, and navigate possible career paths, our courses are organized into three thematic areas: (1) media, culture and society; (2) politics and policy; and (3) critical technology studies

What follows below is a description of the themes, the related employment possibilities, and areas of concentration from which to develop your education, and plan for your future contribution to communication.

To reiterate, these are general themes, they are NOT required streams or prerequisites. They provide a way of thinking about the field of communication; they will assist your course and double-major or minor selection, and help plan for your future career or further education. Please note that these themes are not mutually exclusive, as in practice, the knowledge and skills learned in each overlap and complement each other.

1. Media, Culture and Society

Focused on the relationship between media and culture, the courses in this area cover the range of old and new media from the traditional print (newspaper, magazine and book) to broadcast media (such as film, music, video and television) and new interactive web-based media. Representative courses include: COMN2700 6.0 (formerly COMN 2314 6.0 Media, Culture and Society), COMN 3700 3.0 and COMN3701 3.0 (formerly COMN 3315 6.0 Advertising and Society).

Graduating students have used their understanding of this relationship to work in the communication and cultural industries, and to develop alternatives in non-profit and public media education and production. Specific occupations include: media researcher (conducting research on television content, television ratings or audience research, for example); media developer (creating specialty content, English as a second-language, or ethnic programming); journalist, writer, or editor; creative work in arts and entertainment (copyrighter, producer, director, sales representative); communications advisor on intercultural communications; historians of media and cultural history; and teacher/media educator (developing media literacy in high schools for example).

Complementary Majors (SOME examples): Anthropology; Sociology; Culture and Expression; Canadian Studies; Children’s Studies; English; Social Science; Race, Ethnicity and Indigeneity; Women’s Studies.

2. Politics and Policy

Understanding the business of media and the relationships between the economic and political dimensions of communication and culture is necessary to identify and participate in production and decisions regarding them. Representative courses include: COMN 2200 6.0 (formerly COMN 2313 6.0 Introduction to Politics, Policy and Media); COMN3213 3.0 (formerly COMN 3313 3.0 Labour in the Communication and Cultural Industries); COMN 4214 6.0 (formerly COMN 4314 6.0 Media, Publics and Democracy).

A focus on media regulation and policy-making prepares the student for work in areas such as: media analyst (researches particular issues or news coverage); media relations (works with media in producing and managing coverage); political communication (speech writer, media liaison, or campaign director); public affairs coordinator; professional lobbyist; public opinion researcher; policy developer or analyst (interpreting and developing corporate and public policies on culture and communication); communications law (intellectual property, copyright law, communication rights); or communication specialist (managing communication with/to the public through a range of media, including public relations, government communications, non-profit and activist organizations).

Complementary Majors (some examples): Global Political Studies; Languages; Political Science; Public Policy and Administration or Management; Geography; International Development Studies; Law and Society; Social and Political Thought; Social Work; Urban Studies; Labour Studies.

3. Critical Technology Studies

As both a tool and a product of social relations, technology is ever-pervasive in the “information society”. Representative courses include COMN 2500 6.0 (formerly COMN 2312 6.0) Information and Technology; COMN 4518 6.0 (formerly COMN 3318 6.0) Augmented Bodies; COMN 4520 6.0 (formerly COMN 4320 6.0)The Electronic Information Marketplace. Graduates with this area combine their knowledge of technology in jobs applying new media, such as: video games and graphic arts, website developer; technical assistants; systems analyst; technology coordinator; telecommunications specialist; and teaching new media.

Complementary Majors (some examples): Cognitive Science; Geography; Global Political Studies; Information Technology; International Development Studies; Law and Society; Labour Studies; Science and Technology Studies; Social Science.

Range of Employment Opportunities

Options for Continuing Studies beyond an Honours BA in Communication Studies

If you are interested in continuing studies at the graduate level, please see our Masters in Communication and Culture at www.yorku.ca/gradcmct/ or visit our website (www.yorku.ca/laps/COMN) for links to other Canadian graduate schools in Communication Studies. We also have an extensive list of diploma/certificate programs at the Community College level as another option to complement your degree after graduation.

Concurrent Joint Program in Communication Arts

This program is NOT a part of our department nor are we affiliated with it. Any inquiries about this program should be addressed to the LAPS Advising Centre in Central Square and John Mahaffy (jmahaffy@yorku.ca, 416-736-5022) in particular. The Dept does not endorse this concurrent program of study: we recommend that students acquire applied media training via participating in the many kinds of media produced on campus, such as the community newspaper (Excalibur), or the community-campus radio station (CHRY 105.5 FM). If students wish to acquire applied media training after completing their degree, then an option is to apply to the community college programs.

Enriching your Undergraduate Experience by Participating in a York International Exchange

We encourage students with an overall GPA of B (or 6) at the end of their first year (30+ credits) to consider studying for a semester in their third year at a university abroad. You would need to attend workshops and information sessions provided by York International in your second year in order to ensure that you are able to go away in your third year. Please consult <http://international.yorku.ca> for full details. There are excellent Communication Studies programs around the world affiliated with York, and many of them allow you to study in English.

We also encourage students to look into taking the iBA degree which requires one semester abroad as well as language courses and internationally-oriented courses beyond the requirements for the major.

Degree Programs in the Department of Communication Studies

Our degree options include:

- Honours Double-Major
- Honours Major (Stand-alone)
- Honours Major/Minor BA
- Specialized Honours Major, (This degree will be phased out as of 2016/2017)
- International Honours BA Program (iBA): in Double-Major, Major/Minor, and Major (Stand-alone).

Please note these residency and graduation requirements for each program:

→Residency requirement: a minimum of 30 course credits and at least 50% of the course credits required in each major/minor must be taken at York University.

→Graduation requirement: Students must successfully complete (pass) at least 120 credits which meet the Faculty's degree and program requirements with a cumulative grade point average of at least 5.0.

Honours Double Major BA

Students in the Double Major Program can combine their major with:

→Any other program or department in the Faculty of Liberal Arts & Professional Studies (check the LA&PS New Students' Handbook for a full list), or

→Film Studies in the Faculty of Fine Arts, or

→Kinesiology or Psychology in the Faculty of Health.

Courses taken to meet COMN Studies requirements cannot also be used to meet the requirements of the other major.

Honours Double-Major BA – for students entering COMN Studies BEFORE 2009/10 you are required to complete 42 credits.
Please consult previous mini-calendars for precise course requirements.

Major Requirements for Honours Double Major BA – for students beginning their COMN Studies major as of 1 July 2009 to 1 July 2012.

- The 48 credits in COMN Studies must include

 - 12 credits chosen from the following in Category A: COMN2111 6.0 (formerly AP/COMN2311 6.0); COMN2500 6.0 (formerly AP/COMN2312 6.0 or AP/COMN2312 9.0 or AP/COMN2319 9.0); COMN2200 6.0 (formerly AP/COMN2313 6.0); COMN2700 (formerly AP/COMN2314 6.0, or AP/COMN2314 9.0) If the course had 9 credits, only 6 credits per course count toward the major; as of Summer 2011 we are only offering 6 credit courses).
 - 6 credits at the 3000 level chosen from the list of COMN courses in Category B.
 - 12 credits at the 4000 level chosen from the list of COMN courses in Cat. C (you must have 84 credits in order to enrol in COMN4000 level courses).
 - 12 additional credits (at least 6 credits at the 3000 or 4000 level) from Category D courses which include both Communication Studies courses as well as designated courses from LA&PS, or Health and Fine Arts.

Honours Requirements:

- Upper-level credits: at least 36 credits at the 3000-level or 4000-level, including at least 18 credits at the 4000-level
- Credits outside the major: at least 18 credits.

Honours Major/Minor BA – for students entering COMN Studies BEFORE 2009/10, please consult previous mini-calendars for precise course requirements.

Honours Major/Minor BA Program requirements for students beginning their COMN Studies major as of 1 July 2009 to 1 July 2012.

The Honours program in Communication Studies described above for the period 1 July 2009 to 30 June 2012 may be pursued jointly with any Honours Minor BA program in the Faculty of Liberal Arts & Professional Studies.

Honours Requirements:

- Upper-level credits: at least 36 credits at the 3000-level or 4000-level, including at least 18 credits at the 4000-level.
- Credits outside the major: Students who are completing a double major or major/minor are deemed to have fulfilled this requirement.

Please note Communication Studies does not offer a Minor.

Specialized Honours (54 credits) - For students entering /switching to this program BEFORE F/W2009/10. Please check an earlier calendar for requirements.

Specialized Honours (60 credits) - For students entering /switching to this program between F/W2009/10, and F/W2011/2012. Please check the course conversion sheet to find out the new course numbers. (This degree will be phased out as of 2016/2017)

This degree program will be of interest to students wishing to pursue a more intensive concentration in the field of communication studies and/or considering graduate level studies in this area.

The 60 credits in COMN Studies must include:

- 6 credits from AP/COMN 1310 9.0 (only 6 credits count toward the major);
- 12 credits chosen from the following in Category A : AP/COMN2311 6.0 (; AP/COMN2312 6.0; AP/COMN2312 9.0, AP/COMN2319 9.0; AP/COMN2313 6.0; AP/COMN2314 6.0, AP/COMN2314 9.0 (only 6 credits per course count toward the major; as of Summer 2011 we are only offering 6 credit courses) ;
- 18 credits overall at the 3000 level: 6 credits at the 3000 level chosen from the Category B list; as well as 6 credits in AP/COMN 3100 3.0 and AP/COMN 3101 3.0 (formerly AP/COMN 3320 6.0), and 6 credits in AP/COMN 3150 3.0 and AP/COMN 3151 3.0 (formerly AP/COMN 3991 6.0);
- 12 credits at the 4000 year level chosen from the list of COMN courses in Category C (you must have 84 credits in order to enrol in COMN 4000 level courses). The regulations require students to take 6 of those credits in COMN 4900 6.0 (formerly COMN 4810 6.0), but since it is NOT being offered in 2015/16, students will fulfil this requirement by taking another comn4xxx course.
- 12 additional credits from Category D.

Honours Requirements:

Upper-level credits: at least 36 credits at the 3000-level or 4000-level, including at least 18 credits at the 4000-level

Credits outside the major: at least 18 credits

Students apply for this program after taking AP/COMN1310 6.0 and one other COMN Studies course with a minimum GPA of 6.0 in each course. Applicants must have a minimum GPA of 6.0 (B) in all Communication Studies credits and the required minimum cumulative GPA is 5.0 C+; these averages must be maintained to continue in and graduate from the Specialized Honours BA degree. If you don't maintain these marks, you will be de-enrolled from the program.

NB: The Specialized Honours Degree will be phased out as of Summer 2016; however, students starting this degree, and who maintain the required GPA, will be grandfathered.

The International BA (iBA) Degree

Students may take all of the above degree options in the International Honours BA (iBA) Program: they can do a Double-Major iBA, or a stand-alone major iBA, or a major/minor iBA.

The major requirements are the same for the various degree options listed above PLUS they must fulfill the following requirements:

Required Course: ANTH 2300 3.0 Intercultural Training Skills (to be completed before the term abroad).

Language Study Credits: at least 18 credits in a modern language offered by York University, including the Advanced I university-level course in the chosen language;

If a iBA student is fluent in a language, he/she will undergo an examination to test language proficiency by the Department of Languages, Literatures and Linguistics. Students exempted from one or more of the language courses required for the degree must complete cultural courses related to that language.

Internationally-Oriented Credits: (e.g, courses with “global”, “globalization,” “international” or another country as its title). A sample list of internationally-oriented courses was developed by the Office of the Dean, LA&PS and can be accessed through our website:

<http://www.yorku.ca/laps/comn/documents/APINTLOrientedCourses.pdf>

(This is not meant to be an exhaustive list, but as a sample list to support IBA enrolment.)

At least 12 credits outside the student’s IBA major (if enrolled as of 2014-15 and prior)

OR

At least 9 credits outside the student’s IBA major (2015-16 onwards)

International Exchange: at least one full term abroad as a full-time student at one of York University’s exchange partners.

Honours Requirements:

- Upper-level credits: at least 36 credits in the 3000-level or 4000-level, including at least 18 credits at the 4000 level.
- Credits outside the major: For the Honours iBA, courses taken outside the major to satisfy the language study requirement and/or the internally-oriented courses requirement can also be used to satisfy the outside the major requirement.

For more detailed information regarding the Honours iBA program requirements, please consult the Degree Requirements section of the Undergraduate Calendar.

An advising session is strongly recommended for any students thinking of, or enrolled in, this degree option.

General Education Requirements

Students who entered the Faculty of Arts BEFORE 2009/10, please consult earlier mini-calendars

For students entering the Faculty of Liberal Arts & Professional Studies in 2009/10 to Summer 2012

The Faculty of Liberal Arts & Professional Studies General Education curriculum provides students with the foundation of interdisciplinary knowledge, breadth, methods and the approaches necessary for successful liberal and professional education. General Education courses expose students to ways of knowing and fundamental ideas spanning the Humanities, Modes of Reasoning, Natural Science and Social Science. These courses also provide explicit instruction in critical analytical skills and thought and its communication in writing and speech.

General education requirement by degree types (2009/10 to Summer 2014)

For all Honours BA, BA, Honours iBA and Honours BSW degree programs, the following is required:

24 credits of General Education chosen from Humanities, Modes of Reasoning, Natural Science and Social Science, including a minimum of 6 credits in each of Humanities, Natural Science and Social Science.

Guidelines for general education courses

- It is strongly recommended that students successfully complete (pass) their first General Education course within the first 24 credits.
- It is strongly recommended that all General Education courses be successfully completed (passed) within the first 48 credits.
- Approved General Education courses are offered at the 1000 and 2000-level.
- A maximum of 9 credits in each of the four areas (Humanities, Modes of Reasoning, Natural Science and Social Science) will count towards fulfilment of General Education requirements.
- A maximum of 36 credits in General Education will count towards the degree. Students who are required to exceed the 36 credit maximum because of program/degree requirements must obtain permission to do so from their program of study.
- General Education courses may be used to satisfy more than one requirement, but are counted only once toward the total number of credits required for the degree as follows:

General Education courses may be used to fulfil the General Education requirement and, if applicable, major or minor program requirements. For the purpose of meeting major or minor program requirements, all 9 credit General Education courses will count as 6 credits towards the major or minor. The remaining 3 credits will count towards the total number of credits for the degree. General Education courses used to fulfil the General Education requirement, or major or minor program requirements, may not also be used to fulfil required credits outside the major.

Course-Related Information

1. Grading Standards

LETTER GRADE	POINT VALUE	%	DEFINITION
A+	9	90%+	exceptional
A	8	80-89%	excellent
B+	7	75-79%	very good
B	6	70-74%	good
C+	5	65-69%	competent
C	4	60-64%	fairly competent
D+	3	55-59%	passing
D	2	50-54%	barely passing
E	1	40-49%	marginally failing
F	0	0-39%	failing

2. Grades in Courses

The grading scheme of a course must be announced in writing in class during the first two weeks. We have included grading information in our descriptions of the currently-offered courses, but sometimes a different faculty member ends up teaching a course than the one posted. In that case, s/he may vary the marking scheme, but this information will be made available to the students. Once the class has started and a marking scheme is distributed, the only way the marking scheme can be altered is with the consent of all students.

Faculty is required to give feedback to students in a timely fashion so that they can make decisions about whether to drop a course before the drop date. Normally, 30% of the mark should be available for a full-year course, and 15% for a semester course by the respective drop-dates.

3. Grade Reappraisals

3.1. During the school session

If you question the mark you received in a lecture course with a tutorial leader, please approach your tutorial leader first during his/her office hours for clarification of the marking scheme. If you continue to be dissatisfied, make an appointment with the Course Director and seek his/her intervention. The Undergraduate Program Director can be asked to intervene if a dispute is unresolved, but he/she cannot change the mark.

3.2. Once final marks have been received

If you think that your grade was not justified, you may submit a formal request to the Department (through the office of the Undergraduate Program Director). The form is available from the Department office or from our website: http://www.yorku.ca/laps/comm/documents/LAPS_Grade_Reappraisal_Form.pdf. must be submitted within 21 calendar days of the release of final grades. Students may ask for all written work, or just specific parts to be reassessed; please note that participation marks cannot be reassessed. The reassessment will, in the first case, be carried out by the Course Director (if s/he has not already seen the work), and then if the dispute continues, by an anonymous marker (another full-time teaching member of our department) who will receive the work with the student's name removed. As a result of the reappraisal, the original grade may be raised, lowered or confirmed. The grade reappraisal may take from 6-8 weeks; you will be notified in writing via letter to your home address.

The decision of the Department may be appealed—on procedural grounds only—to the Faculty of Liberal Arts & Professional Studies' Committee on Student Appeals and Academic Integrity. Appeals must be submitted within 21 calendar days of receiving the Department's letter.

4. Deferred Standing

Students may be eligible for Deferred Standing in a course on such grounds as illness, family misfortune, or accident.

Deferred standing allows students more time to complete course assignments, tests, and exams, after the deadline for the Faculty to submit final marks. Students in such circumstances should approach their Course Director(s) to sign the Deferred Standing Agreement (available online <http://www.registrar.yorku.ca/exams/deferred/>). Please pay attention to the deadline dates for submitting the form. If a course director is unwilling or unable to sign the DSA form, you can submit a petition to the Faculty of Liberal Arts & Professional Studies' Committee on Student Academic Petitions—see their web site—within 48 hours of the Department's deadline.

5. Letter of Permission

(For courses taken outside the Department of Communication Studies for Communication Studies' credit)

If you want to take courses at another university for credit toward your Communication Studies major, you must make an appointment with the Undergraduate Program Director (or his/her delegate) BEFORE YOU GO AWAY. At that meeting, you must bring:

- A letter of permission form (available online <http://www.registrar.yorku.ca/enrol/lop/>) filled out,
- A copy of a detailed course description(s) from the other university's web site (including information about the length of the course, year level and credit value).

At the meeting, the UGPD will assess the proposed course(s) and if it is acceptable, the form will be signed. You then submit the form to the R.O.'s office for processing.

6. Academic Honesty

The York University's Senate Policy on Academic Honesty "is an affirmation and clarification for members of the University of the general obligation to maintain the highest standards of academic honesty." Students are advised to make themselves aware of all the instances of academic dishonesty and proper research procedures in order to avoid being charged. The Department of Communication Studies is committed to following up on all reported cases. The Undergraduate Program Director's office handles all cases at the Exploratory Level. The full document, including the range of penalties, is available at <http://secretariat-policies.info.yorku.ca/policies/academic-honesty-senate-policy-on/>

7. Petitions: Requests for the Waiver of Departmental and Faculty regulations

The Faculty of Liberal Arts & Professional Studies' Committee on Student Academic Petitions will consider student petitions that request a waiver from the Faculty's or Department's rules and regulations. More information regarding petitions is available on the Faculty's website at

<http://www.yorku.ca/laps/council/students/petitions.html>

General Student-Oriented Information

1. Communication Studies Student Association (CSSA)

The York University Undergraduate Communication Studies Students Association (CSSA) seeks to create relationships between Communication Studies students through both academic and social events; students can connect through events such as job fairs, movie nights, mentoring programs and speakers. It also hopes to create a bridge between faculty and students to prepare students for life after university. The Association is created by students, for students with faculty and staff support. For more information about the CSSA please visit www.yorku.ca/cssa

2. Student Awards: Internal and External

For up-to-date information about our awards and prizes, please consult our website.

2.1. Internal Awards: Recipients will be notified in the fall and honoured at a reception held jointly with the Department of Social Science.

Penny Joliffe Scholarship

Named in honour of a long-standing member of the Communications Department at the university, this award goes to the student in the first-year “Introduction to Communications” course who has a high GPA in the course, is recommended by the Course Director, and is continuing on into second year as a major in the Department of Communications Studies.

Eric Koch Award

This award honours Professor Eric Koch, a long-time member of the former Communications Studies Program in the former Faculty of Arts who retired in 2003. This award is given to the student in the second-year “Politics, Policy and the Media” course who has a high GPA in the course, is recommended by the Course Director, and is continuing on into third year as a major in the Department of Communications Studies.

Jerry Durlak Award

This award honours Professor Jerry Durlak, a long-time member of the former Communications Studies Program in the former Faculty of Arts who passed away in 2009. This award is given to the student in the second-year “Information and Technology” course who has a high GPA in the course, is recommended by the Course Director, and is continuing on into third year as a major in the Department of Communications Studies.

Dalton Kehoe Award

This award honours Professor Dalton Kehoe, a long-time member of the former Communications Studies Program in the former Faculty of Arts who retired in 2008. This award is given to the student in the second-year “Communication in Everyday Life” course who has a high GPA in the course, is recommended by the Course Director, and is continuing on into third year as a major in the Department of Communications Studies.

Reva Orlicky Memorial and Founding Friends Award

This monetary award (approximately 400$) has been established by York University alumni and friends to provide a bursary to a deserving York University upper-year Communication Studies student (now in 3rd or 4th year), under the guidelines of the Ontario Student Opportunity Trust Fund. Priority will be given to those students who have shown an interest in, or are taking courses in, the context and conditions for radio / public broadcasting in Canada, who have a high GPA, and are in financial need.

Students need to write a short letter explaining why they deserve the award. Applications must be submitted to the Undergraduate Program Director, via email (mlc@yorku.ca) by October 12, 2015

Arthur Siegel Award

Awarded to a student who is a double-major in Communication Studies and a Social Science program, who has completed at least 60 credits, and who holds the highest cumulative grade point average among the qualified candidates. If there are no eligible double-majors then the recipient will be a Communications major. Recipient must be Canadian citizen, permanent resident or protected person and an Ontario resident who demonstrates financial need. Over his 34-year career at York, Prof. Arthur Siegel was an inspiration to thousands of students, was instrumental in shaping York's Communication Studies Program and served as Chair of the Department of Social Science, among many other achievements. Arthur made unique and important scholarly contributions to the fields of politics and media communications policy in Canada, particularly on press freedoms, censorship, propaganda and referenda. Prior to York, Arthur was a prolific journalist in Canada and the US, and an instrumental force at Radio Canada international. Throughout his life, Arthur worked tirelessly for a number of charitable organizations.

To be considered for this award, submit the Student Financial Profile available at <http://sfs.yorku.ca/aid/sfp/>

2.2. External Awards: while there are a number of York University undergraduate awards and scholarships available (<http://sfs.yorku.ca/scholarships/index.htm> here is one which relates directly to our field.

Ruth Hancock Scholarships

These annual scholarships [worth $1500 each] are designed to encourage talented, hard-working students to pursue careers in Canadian broadcasting or broadcast sales/marketing.

AP/COMN 1000 6.0 INTRODUCTION TO COMMUNICATIONS

Course Director: Prof. David Skinner

This course is required for the major and is no longer a Gen Ed. Course.

This course introduces students to the study of communication. It is designed to provide a critical overview - or survey - of the main themes and issues in the field of communication and mass media. It looks at communication from both the personal and social levels and considers the myriad ways in which forms and processes of communication are implicated in our knowledge and understanding of the world.

The course is structured to introduce students to the three thematic areas of the Communication Studies Program: Media and Culture, Politics and Policy and Critical Technology Studies. In the first term, we will consider the roles of language, culture and, particularly, the mass media, in the production of meaning and the construction of our social environment. In the second term, we will examine the roles of the state, civil society, institutions, organizations, and technology in the production and distribution of culture and social power.

The basic objectives and anticipated learning outcomes of the course are: i) to provide a critical understanding of the structures and practices of communication, and particularly the mass media; ii) to develop a critical understanding of communication as a cultural form; iii) to encourage the use and appreciation of social theory in reflecting on the study of communication and mass media; iv) to build an appreciation of the social political and economic dimensions of mass-mediated communication; v) to develop an understanding of the Canadian context of mass communication.

The lectures will be supplemented with both video materials and in-class assignments to illustrate the relationships between your personal experiences of the media and the theoretical and critical perspectives discussed in class.

Format: 2-hour lecture and 1-hour tutorial.
Projected Enrolment: 450
Reserved Spaces: Most spaces for COMN majors

AP/COMN 2111 6.0 COMMUNICATION IN EVERYDAY LIFE

(NB: this is NOT a required COMN2000 level course for new COMN Studies majors as of Fall 2012/13, but may fulfill Category A requirements for students enrolled from 2009/2010 to 2011/2012)

Course Director: Prof. Dalton Kehoe

In this course we examine the processes of everyday communication in order to understand how we construct ourselves, our relationships to each other and the larger world. The course will explore a variety of models to discover the fundamental connections between how we create and communicate meaning within ourselves, between ourselves and others in "face-to-face" situations, and between ourselves and many others using impersonal, mediated forms of communication.

The course has two purposes: (1) it provides students with a general understanding of how the various social sciences can help them to recognize the "taken-for-granted" aspects of their daily lives as communicators, i.e. to discover the forces that move them and the people around them to act in ways that are sometimes hard to understand at first glance; and (2) it gives students a chance to explore the nature of effective communication in their daily lives. We will analyze "what works and what doesn't" in a number of important situations in life. We will use a variety of "hands on" learning techniques to encourage students to experience concepts directly and to improve their skills as communicators. This will not only help them in their work as students but in other areas of their personal lives. Course work also includes keeping a personal journal where students can reflect upon their observations of their own and others' communication behaviour.

AP/COMN 2200 POLITICS, POLICY AND THE MEDIA

(NB: this is a required COMN2000 level course for new COMN studies majors as of F/W 2012/2013; it is also a CAT A course for students who enrolled from F/W 2009-2010 to F/W2011-2012.)

Course Director: Prof. Wade Rowland

This course analyzes the relationship between media practices, government decision-making, and social constructions of power. We examine the role of the state, market and civil society in the development of communication systems and in the production and distribution of culture with special attention to Canada.

The course engages in the theoretical perspective that communication systems and cultural practices shape – and are shaped by – the social constitution of power in all societies. Students will be introduced to a range of dominant and alternative media structures and practices; historic and current examples of Canadian government communication and cultural policy-making (on national and international levels); and various media representations of social relations (and of political processes and political parties in particular). Students will also be introduced to theories of media and democracy and discuss how democracy is articulated both in and through communication.

The basic objectives and anticipated learning outcomes of the course are to provide a critical understanding of: (i) the ways in which media are implicated in practices and processes of governance, democracy, and social constitutions of power; (ii) the public policy dimensions of media practice; (iii) the relationships between media and forms of globalization; (iv) the relationships between political and economic dimensions of mass-mediated communication and socio-cultural practices; and (v) the role of media in Canadian politics and society. The course aims to develop this understanding to provide a foundation for advanced communication courses, to enhance media literacy and research skills, and to prepare the student for active citizenship.

AP/COMN 2500 INFORMATION AND TECHNOLOGY

(NB: this is a required COMN2000 level course for new COMN studies majors as of 1 July 2012 and F/W 2012/2013; it is also a Category A course for students who enrolled from F/W 2009-2010 to 2011-2012.)

Course Director: Prof. Ganaele Langlois

This course focuses on critical stances with which to view our society's preoccupation with "information," "media" and "technology." Different models, theoretical approaches and case studies are used to understand how "information" and "technology" affect social change.

We focus on critical stances with which to view our society's preoccupation with "information," "media" and "technology." We begin with the premise that we cannot understand our current and future information societies unless we have some understanding of how information has been accumulated and disseminated in the past and how information technologies correspond with specific social and political forms. We will look at specific social science models that allow us to conceptualize how "information" and "technology" affect social change, as well as specific theories that provide perspectives on the effects of information technology. Students should be aware that while we look at specific media and technology, for example the telephone and the printing press, the course does not try to present a unified “history” of all media and technologies.

Thus, in addition to the broader aims outlined above, the course will also equip students with sets of key terms and concepts as well as methodological and theoretical approaches which will both build on ideas presented in the Communications Studies introductory course and provide the basis to enable the student to engage with more complex and sophisticated analyses undertaken in the 3000 and 4000 level courses in this stream.

Critical Skills component: As well as focusing on students’ reading and writing skills, this course also concentrates on enhancing students “Information Literacy” skills including research searching, evaluating and organizing skills.

Format: 2-hour lecture and one-hour tutorial
Projected enrolment: 250

AP/COMN 2700 MEDIA, CULTURE AND SOCIETY

Course Director: Prof. Mark Hayward

This course explores the individual and collective significance of the role of communications in culture and society. Various historical, theoretical and methodological approaches are introduced as ways to analyse the impact of communications media in everyday life.

The principal aim of the course is to allow students the opportunity to develop a critical awareness of what role media play in their lives, and to understand that media themselves, and the ways that each of us use media, are shaped by forces that are not necessarily self-evident, nor subject to our individual will. Through the discussion of various approaches for thinking about communication media, students will be in a position to move toward understanding and evaluating media in their historical, social and cultural contexts, and the ways that media shape those contexts.

The course will also equip students with sets of key terms and concepts as well as methodological and theoretical approaches which will both build on ideas presented in the introductory course and provide the basis to enable the student to engage with more complex and sophisticated analyses undertaken in the 3000 and 4000 level courses in this stream.

ORGANIZATIONAL COMMUNICATION

Course Director: Prof. Dalton Kehoe

The purpose of this course (part one) is to familiarize the student with the main concepts, viewpoints, and research findings and applications in the field of organizational communication. Much of what human beings accomplish alone or with others in the modern world is achieved in the context of formal organizations. Human organizations are both the products of persistent, focused communication and the contexts within which on-going communication occurs. The fundamental aspects of human communication at the interpersonal, group and larger organizational levels will be studied. The relationships between organizational size, complexity, tasks and external environments and the nature, quality and flow patterns of intra-organizational communication will be analyzed. For more information please refer to the course website: <http://comn3111.thetalkpage.com>.

Students are encouraged to take COMN 3111 3.0 if they want to take COMN 3112 3.0, but there is no prerequisite.

Format: Lectures for this course will be offered on-line; regular one-hour in-class seminars will complement the lectures

COMMUNICATING SOCIAL MOVEMENTS

Course Director: TBA

The course examines the literature on major developments in the history of Canadian social and protest movements, social entrepreneurialism, and pressure group behaviour. The larger historical questions of current movements' relationships to past patterns of protest are investigated, as is the question of how social justice agendas are managed by governments. To better situate this concern, the course examines major themes of technology, society, regulation and the political-cultural impact of social and protest movements.

DIGITAL MEDIA AND CULTURE

Course Director: Prof. Rob Heynen

This course examines the origins and development of forms of digital media and culture with particular emphasis on how they differ from pre-digital or "analog" cultural forms. Upon establishing our theoretical foundations for considering new media as technology and culture, we investigate the historical development of digital technology and some of the transformative effects it has had, and continues to have, on previous forms of communication. Seminar discussions address themes such as identity, privacy, hardware/software, education, journalism, news, and interactivity, in relation to topics such as hypermedia, cyberspace, satellites, digital telephony, digital radio/music, digital photography/video, and digital literacy.

Students are encouraged to take COMN 3550 3.0 if they want to take COMN 3551 3.0, but there is no prerequisite.

THE RISE OF THE CLASSICAL HOLLYWOOD CINEMA

Course Director: TBA

This course concentrates on the Hollywood cinema from 1929 to 1945, a period that deals with the concept of 'the studio system' which functioned to cut production cost while mass producing films. We will investigate fictional narrative film and its relation to entertainment, art, ideology and political discourse. Emphasis will be placed on the significance of talent and creativity to the studio product. The period covered includes the impact the Great Depression and World War II made on America and the Hollywood cinema.

Students are encouraged to take COMN 3712 3.0 if they want to take COMN 3713 3.0, but there is no prerequisite.

Format: 3 hour seminar

AP/COMN 3713 3.0 (Winter)
THE DECLINE OF THE CLASSICAL HOLLYWOOD CINEMA

Course Director: TBA

This course concentrates on the Hollywood cinema from 1946 to 1964. The aftermath of WWII produced political, social and cultural changes that effected the mainstream cinema. Politically, the Cold War led the government to publicly investigate the film industry and its connections to leftist ideals; socially, WWII brought to the forefront concerns about inequality home and abroad; culturally, WWII led to the public interest in 'realist' filmmaking, a challenge to the studio system and its meaning of production. In addition, corporate America saw the film industry as a means to encourage a consumerist lifestyle.

Students are encouraged to take COMN 3712 3.0 if they want to take COMN 3713 3.0, but there is no prerequisite.

Format: 3 hour seminar

YOUTH CULTURES AND MEDIA PRACTICES

Course Director: Prof. Susan Driver

This course analyzes contemporary youth cultures with an emphasis on the ways in which youth engage with diverse and converging media texts and practices. The course develops a contextual understanding of media literacy, identities, embodiments, subcultures, social networks and civic engagements within the lives of youth, analyzing media institutions and policies, consumer cultures, technologies as well as local participatory and transnational practices. Youth are understood in terms of their media uses and productions as learners, consumers, producers and artists across complex relations of power, discursive frameworks and dynamic experiences. Oriented toward conceptualizing "youth," "culture" and "media practices" in relational, historically nuanced and culturally situated ways, we will examine and undertake qualitative youth media research with critical and reflexive theoretical and methodological tools. Our goal is to balance an understanding of hegemonic forces of commodification controlled by corporate media with emerging and changing relations in which youth collectively transform the conditions, forms and directions of their media participation.

THE CITY IN FILM: IDENTITY AND PLACE

Course Director: TBA

The cinema, arguably the most significant cultural medium of mass communication of the 20th century, reflects and interprets urban experience, contributing to perceptions of the real city through the popular imagination. The theoretical underpinnings of the course are located in Benjamin's and Baudrillard's ideas regarding the significance of the cinema in relation to urban life; selected films illustrate their contentions.

The focus of the course will be on how the cinema utilizes space and location to communicate the collective concerns addressed in narrative entertainment, considering genre, iconic meaning, and authorship. The purpose of the course is to illustrate how the cinema, the most significant cultural medium of mass communication of the 20th century, reflects and interprets urban experience, contributing to perceptions of the real through the popular imagination.

VISUAL CULTURE: HISTORIES, THEORIES, AND POLITICS

Course Director: Prof. Rob Heynen

This course develops critical perspectives on the field of visual culture. Visual culture includes the study of a broad range of media and forms of expression, from photography and film to graffiti, considering them as part of a broader culture of visibility. The course begins from the perspective that vision itself is not simply natural or universal, but that modes of seeing, being seen, and invisibility need to be understood in concrete historical, social, political and cultural contexts. We consider key theories in the field, critical analyses of modes of visual perception, and studies of specific media as examples of visual cultural production. The course makes extensive use of visual cultural sources in exploring different approaches to the field.

Topics include: historical perspectives on different media; critical analyses of the visual culture of the body and subjectivity, including questions of race, gender, sexuality and ability; visual culture and capitalism; visual culture, colonialism and globalization; alternative practices of visual culture; the politics of surveillance; critical perspectives on new media.

Following from Mary-Louise Craven's dissertation which was an analysis of various genres of hypertext as they existed in the early 1990's, she continues to be interested in exploring online communication and information-sharing platforms. She is particularly interested in exploring the constraints placed on users by the set-up of software, for example, PowerPoint (see, "The uneasy co-existence of a 'culture of ease' and a 'culture of Dummies' in The Computer Culture Reader). She is currently analysing a digitized collection of approximately 1500 Edwardian era postcards from a single-family collection to study the distribution and consumption of this form of communication; she has presented her findings at a wide range of conferences.
